SHORT OVERVIEW

NUMBERS AND FACTS

ABOUT WODA

WODA, the World Organization of Dredging Associations, is composed of three independent sister associations.

CEDA, EADA and WEDA are the only independent, international, professional dredging associations, in their respective regions. They are united in a sole interest in dredging, from construction and maintenance, of water infrastructure (marine and fluvial), and share the following objectives:

- Promote and facilitate the development, dissemination and sharing of professional dredging knowledge
- Participate in developing international policies and guidelines
- Facilitate contacts within and outside the dredging community
- Enhance the public image of dredging

Each association has a diverse membership encompassing corporations, professionals and stakeholders, from many different fields, who represent a range of disciplines and all aspects of the product supply chain. Members include manufacturers, universities, research institutes, regulators, consultants, dredging companies and public authorities, working in the dredging, navigation, coastal and inland flood protection, deep-sea mining, offshore wind energy, oil and gas production fields, and providers of a broad range of services such as brokers, insurers, financiers, lawyers and many more.
CEDA, EADA and WEDA, individually and together, represent the common interest of all fields related to dredging and construction of water infrastructure, and do not promote the interest of any particular industry sector or organisation.
